examiner.com

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT / CELEBRITY

Evil Auntie and the Bay Area Web Pioneers

September 1, 2009
3:00 PM MST

Evil Auntie is a comedy cooking series cooked up by Bay Area multi-media pioneers, Robin Elaine McCain and Leslie Strait, and is a 2009 Webby Awards Official Honoree.

Evil Auntie is lovingly based on one of McCain's aunts and each month the eccentric Evil Auntie shares insightful cooking tips and instruction on food and life. The character's comparisons with America's national cook, Julia Childs, have not been lost on McCain and Strait. Their blog, Channeling Julia, provides insightful information on everything food related from correct cooking temperatures to cooking utensils.

Streit and McCain co-produced the first ever web series in 1996, the award winning Internet site, VD2001. Their production company, Cinematiks, is currently producing The Elly Glass Project, a documentary about pioneer architect Henry P. Glass and his wife Elly.

Ginger Liu

Inside Hollywood Examiner